yourself, plain and unattractive as you are they could not possibly desire to marry you!" It had seemed to him that it would be a cruel thing to say this to her. He who had so often seen an appreciation of beauty and racefulness felt so bitterly the misfortune of his child's lack of these things, that possibly he had even an exaggerated idea of her unattractiveness. He would not wound her by saying so to her, but he did not believe it possible that Margaret could be ever truly loved, and yet he would not tell her how rich she would be lest he should give her the additional pang of finding herself wooed for her beauty.

I love her very dearly, sir, and I hold your consent—

'Well, yes. Young ladies are often enthusiastic; still, as Margaret is my only child, I am naturally anxious to accomplish her happiness.
Oh! you are too good sir,' murmured the young man.

THE GRAND JURY REPORT.

The grand jury report which we published last week, and which the members of that body had been working on, either by committees or in a body, for nearly three months, is certainly out of the ordinary run of such documents. No doubt the jury has been painstaking, and has prided into county affairs pretty thoroughly. The report speaks for itself on that score. Many of the recommendations and censures handed out to the officials are timely, and the reforms urged are in the direction of law and good government. The recommendations concerning the work on the roads and allowance and payment of bills are in keeping with the strict letter of the law. The Ledger has for years pointed out the impropriety of the course adopted many years ago, in lumping bills for road work, but this practice has ceased. The coyote bounty law is another weak spot struck in the report, and they might with equal reason have included the bluejay bounty law, for they both stand on the same footing. The law as it stands makes no provision for the destruction of scalps after bounty has been paid thereon. True, a simple regard for public interests might suggest that the scalps be destroyed, to prevent the possibility of double payment thereon, but the ordinances do not make this obligatory, and are therefore fatally defective. As a matter of fact the scalps are not always destroyed. They have been found lying loose around the court house, for anybody to pick up. Such looseness in legal enactments ought not to be tolerated, and the jury has done good service in calling attention to the lameness of the law and practice.

There are, as might be expected, several weak points in the report. We do not believe a body of men, constituted as the grand jury is, without practical acquaintance with the details of local government, can possibly, in the short time in which the jury is in session, grasp the whole system of county management. They are apt to be misled by partial or incorrect information. Where the plain obligations of law are concerned, a grand jury can hardly get on the wrong track in contending for the strict observance of the statutes by county officials. But when it comes to recommendation outside of the plain provisions of law, or condemnation of officials for the exercise of discretionary power invested in them, they are likely to be misled, and base their comments on weak foundations. Hence we find the jury recommends the board of supervisors to spend more of the public money on improving the county buildings, and not all on the public roads. This is unintelligible as it stands. The money raised for road purposes cannot be spent in any other way. It would be a flagrant breach of law and render the supervisors open to prosecution to divert any portion of the road funds to the improvement of county buildings. If the report recommended the levy of a smaller tax for road purposes, and a larger levy for current expenses, it would be understood, but as the matter stands it is vague and misleading.

Again, the declaration that the board of supervisors wasted $400 for 10 copies of the new county map, because the map, as they contend, is inaccurate in many ways, smacks of littleness. It attacks the board in the exercise of powers that properly belong to the county managers, and unless the officials are guilty of gross abuse in the exercise of their discretion, it behooves a grand jury to leave them unchallenged in that domain. How absurd to contend that money is wasted because the work paid for is not perfect. Imperfection is stamped upon all human products. The grand jury's report is in the same category. It is not accurate in many of its statements of fact, but it does not follow that its work is useless. To pay $400 to aid in the compilation of a new map is a very small sum for such a work. And that the work was needed there can be no question. To secure a complete and elaborate map would have cost ten times the sum, and would moreover have not been of one whit more practical value. No map was ever made, or ever will be made, that is absolutely correct. Even the costly products of the general government in this line are not without imperfection. The map of 1881 cost many times more than the new one, and did not even embrace the full territory of the county, leaving out several square miles. On the theory of the grand jury's report, all human enterprises should stop, for the reason that inasmuch as they must necessarily be imperfect and incomplete, the money expended therein is wasted. We are at a loss to know why an intelligent body of men should lay down such false premises.

Again, the report recommends that an office be provided in the court house for the coroner and public administrator. Why? The work of the public administrator is done in a lawyer's office, and would be done there if the public official had a separate office, unless the attorney took up his quarters therein. As for coroner, if an office is to be provided for the transaction of that official's business, he would need one in every town in the county, as his duties call him to hold inquisitions wherever necessity arises therefor. The business of the public administrator is with the court; his official records are on file in the clerk's office, and why he should be provided with a special office is beyond our comprehension. Might just as well recommend that the county surveyor should be provided with office room. It is to be hoped the supervisors will totally disregard that portion of the report.

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach and excite the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucus instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

The Staples Case.

A. Caminetti has been employed to take charge of the defense in the Staples murder case. W. G. Snyder, who was the sole attorney for defendant up to a week ago, will still retain his position as counsel. It is understood that the defendant has received financial assistance from relatives in the east; the current rumor is that he received $1000 to enable him to secure capable and experienced counsel to defend him. It was remarked at the time of arraignment that no advantage was taken by means of demurrer to the sufficiency of the complaint. On Caminetti being employed, he at once took steps to remedy this omission, and served notice upon the district attorney that on March 27 he would move for a continuance of the trial, which was set for April 10, and also that defendant be permitted to withdraw his plea of "not guilty," and make such other motion in relation to the indictment as might seem advisable. The reason assigned was that the plea had been inadvertently made.

On Monday morning the defendant with his attorney appeared in court, to present his affidavits in support of his motion for the continuance of the trial.

Affidavits of defendant, W. G. Snyder and A. Caminetti were read. The affidavit of the defendant is as follows:

F. N. Staples, being first duly sworn, deposes and says that he is a resident near Ensenada, in Lower California, on the 28th day of January, 1905, and immediately placed in jail in said Ensenada, where I was kept in close confinement until the 28th day of February, 1905, when I was taken by the sheriff of Amador county via San Francisco to Jackson, and placed in the county jail, where I have been and still am kept in close confinement. I am charged with the murder of my wife at Amador City on the 31st day of August, 1904, but I am absolutely innocent of the said charge. At the time of my arrest near Ensenada I had but the sum of $20 in Mexican money, and the said money was taken possession of by the authorities, and has not been returned to me; at the time of my arrest and ever since said day I have had no other assets whatever, except divers pieces of clothing and second hand persons, and a second mortgage on a residence in Amador City; said book accounts I sent to a collection agency in San Francisco several months ago, but I have not realized anything whatever on account of same, said second hand persons has been attached for a sum including costs of about $441. I made diligent efforts while coming through San Francisco to get counsel, and tried my best to get acquainted with the said collecting agency, but said agency was not formed, has moved from San Francisco, and I have been unable to locate it, although I have made repeated efforts so to do, and so have others in my belief.

On my arrival in Jackson on March 3, 1905, a person guaranteed the payment of the expense of a telegram to my grandfather in Maine and my uncle in Boston, who were my friends and relatives, and whom I could not hope to get financial aid; these telegrams were signed by me; stated that I was absolutely penniless, imprisoned, innocent, and begged for financial assistance. My father is poor and has no money to send me money, he got the same from my grandfather.

I sent other urgent telegrams to my uncle, asking him to send me what he could. These telegrams were followed by many urgent letters by me and by a person in behalf of my uncle, father and grandfather, in which letters my condition was exactly stated, and said letters implored them to send me money with which to employ an attorney and prepare my defense.

In response to said letters and telegrams, my grandfather finally sent me money by checks, which checks were received by me March 24, 1905.

On arrival in Jackson I continued my efforts to get an attorney to represent me. I solicited employment of nearly every attorney in Amador county, also C. A. Swisher of Placerville, F. H. Gould of San Francisco, J. C. Brule of San Francisco, and other attorneys, but as I was without funds to pay said attorneys, or pay for the necessary expenses for the preparation of my case, I was unsuccessful in getting any of said attorneys to agree to represent me. I was prospectively trapped by being confined in jail, but used every human endeavor to raise money; tried to sell said second mortgage and said book accounts, but was unable to realize anything whatever of any kind or character until the arrival of said money from grandfather.

On March 9, 1905, I was taken before the above court for arraignment, and stated to the court that I was without counsel and asked for ten days within which to employ counsel. The court granted two days for that purpose; on the evening of March 9, 1905, Wm. G. Snyder visited me in jail. He was a stranger to me, but stated that he had been recently asked to prepare the case that he had had no experience whatever, was an electrician by profession; had heard of my sorry plight and was willing to do what he could for me. I gladly accepted his offer and asked him to try to get me an attorney and allow me to write my grandfather and to appear in court with me on the date to which my arraignment had been continued. I believed there was still some possible chance to get some money, with which to employ an attorney of experience, and the said Wm. G. Snyder said he would try and help me get such an attorney; he also stated to me that he did not think of undertaking to try my case alone, but if I could get an attorney he was willing to assist; he said he did not ask nor expect any compensation whatever, and his services to me were actuated wholly by a desire to see that I got a fair chance for my life.

I then stated to said Snyder that what I gladly accepted his services I of course could not consent to his trying my case alone, and it was agreed between us that he should get another attorney to assist him; on March 11th he appeared in court with me, and being asked to plead to the indictment, in my confusion and embarrassment I pleaded "not guilty," not knowing at the time that I had a right to demur to the indictment or move to set it also, or challenge the fairness of the grand jury. As soon as I said "not guilty," the judge asked the district attorney when he wished the case set for trial, and the district attorney replied, April 10, 1905; and then the judge asked Mr. Snyder if that was satisfactory, and he said, without consulting me, that it would be; and both Mr. Snyder and myself at that time thought that within a day or two we would be able to get another attorney into the case, and though we had used every human effort from said 11th day of March, up to this day we were unable to employ another attorney, because neither of us had money with which to pay such attorney.

Immediately on the arrival of said checks, I conferred with Mr. Snyder, and we employed A. Caminetti to take charge of my case, with the assistance of said Snyder. I am advised by said A. Caminetti, and so state upon my oath, that under present conditions, considering the labor required in the preparation of the case, it will be utterly impossible for me to proceed to trial on said 10th day of April, 1905, and that it will be unsafe for me to go to trial on that day; I am also advised, and so state upon my oath, that in order to preserve my rights I should demur to said indictment, and also move to set same aside on various legal grounds. I have not subpoenaed any witnesses, nor have any subpoenas issued, because I had no money to employ counsel to consult with witnesses or to ascertain what their testimony would be; I know I can prove my innocence of this terrible charge against me if I am given sufficient opportunity to prepare my defense.

My relatives and my wife's relatives who reside in the state of Maine can give important testimony in my behalf; that they can not attend the trial, because they have no money to pay their expenses, nor have I, so their depositions will have to be taken, and said depositions cannot possibly be taken and returned in time for said trial if the same are to proceed on April 10, 1905. I also would like to get the testimony of witnesses in Ensenada, Lower California; said testimony will have to be taken by the U. S. consul at Ensenada with the aid of Spanish interpreters, and moving to the forms of law in that country it will take at least a month to get said testimony by deposition and have same forwarded here for use at the trial of this case.

I have no means of raising any additional money, and out the amount now on hand my entire defense must be paid. I must not only pay my attorney out of said money, but must also pay all other necessary and legitimate expenses of my defense in this proceeding. It will be necessary for me to employ an expert chemist and toxicologist and physicians to give expert testimony at the trial of my case. Two of the leading physicians of Jackson, I am informed, have been employed by the prosecution, and that the prosecution has also employed a noted chemist of San Francisco, and expended large sums of money in the preparation of its case against me; that my means are so limited that I necessarily, unless the attendance of witnesses can be secured, I will have to take the depositions of many of my witnesses in San Francisco and other places, as I will not have the means to bring them thither to the trial of this case. I am up to this time I have made no preparations whatever for the trial of my case for the reasons herein stated. It will now be necessary to have my counsel, expert chemists, toxicologists and physicians, so as to have my testimony at the trial of the case. I have been informed, believe and say that the prosecution will attempt to prove that I administered to my deceased wife arsenic with the intention of poisoning her to death, and from the effects of which she died; that after her burial her body was taken from its grave by the prosecuting officers and a post-mortem examination held by the coroner of this county, and said body was examined by physicians employed by the prosecution, who opened the same, took therefrom the stomach, which was sent to a chemist in San Francisco; that said physicians examined the organs of said body, and will testify that said deceased died from a poison, and not from the malady which was really the cause of her death, to wit typhoid fever; that said physicians have in their possession a bottle of arsenic, and that said chemist will testify that the stomach contained arsenic, and that the prosecution has had said stomach secreted; and that the prosecution has denied the defendant and the said W. G. Snyder the permission to inspect said arsenic and organs, and has refused to permit the same to be inspected by any chemist, physician, or toxicologist in the interest of the defense; that the coroner of this county, and said trunk contains evidence in behalf of defendant, but the prosecuting officers have refused and still refuse to permit defendant or said W. G. Snyder or any other one in behalf of defendant to inspect the contents of said trunk.

That one Emily Maud Hoxie has also been charged with the murder of defendant's wife; that said Emily Maud Hoxie is confined in jail at Jackson; that said Hoxie has not been permitted to have any communication with her since her incarceration here, nor has said W. G. Snyder; and the prosecuting officers refuse to permit defendant or said W. G. Snyder to interview said Emily Maud Hoxie; that said Emily Maud Hoxie is defendant's principal witness, and can give valuable testimony in his behalf, but in order to have the same properly presented it is necessary that defendant's counsel be permitted to consult with the said Emily Maud Hoxie.

Wherefore the defendant prays that this court permit him to withdraw his plea of not guilty, and make such other plea or motion in regard to said indictment as he may be advised by his counsel.

Defendant further prays that the trial of this case be continued until the 1st of May, 1905, or some day later.

F. N. STAPLES.

Subscribed and sworn to before A. Caminetti, Notary public.

The affidavits of A. Caminetti and W. G. Snyder were also read; they were of a corroborative character.

After argument lasting until Tuesday noon, the court denied that portion of the motion relating to the withdrawal of the plea already entered, and granted a postponement of the trial until May 1st. This necessitates the resumption of the trial the 7th day of May, 1905, the several amounts set opposite the names of the respective shareholders, as follows:

As Eugene Sutherland was before the superior court last Saturday morning, on the filing of the indictment against him, he was seized with an epileptic fit, and had to be packed out of the court room. He was placed in the school superintendent's office, while doctors were summoned and worked over him for some time. The attack was a very severe one, and it was thought for a while that he would die. After an hour he was brought out all right. Mrs. Hoxie was also in the court room when the attack seized Sutherland, and witnessed his being carried from the room. She was represented by W. J. McGee. She is quite good looking, and does not seem to be at all nervous about her position. As she was being accompanied to the jail after the court proceedings, she remarked, "They didn't have to pack me out of court." Her arraignment is set for tomorrow morning.

The total insurance was $1000, distributed as follows: On barn, $300; hay presses, $300; mow, etc., $100; hay, $200. As there was little hay in the barn at the time of the fire, that item was struck out. The adjuster came up and investigated the matter, and allowed the insured $800.

Some preliminary surveys are being made from Jackson valley to Jackson. Work has been going on in this direction quietly for a couple of weeks. What the purpose of this work is we are unable to say. The surveying is going on without any flourish of trumpets. It may or may not develop into something important for the development of Amador county.

Out of the Race for District Judgeship.

Superior Judge R. C. Rust, who has been prominently mentioned in connection with the appointment of democratic judge of the newly constituted district court of appeals in the northern district of California, received an autograph letter from Governor Pardee Wednesday evening, informing him that he would not receive the appointment. The letter was very courteous and complimentary, stating that his failure to secure the appointment was in no wise derogatory to his ability as judge. This disposes of the matter as far as Amador county is concerned. The governor has not made the appointment as yet. It is understood, however, that either Judge McLaughlin of Plumas county, or Judge Prewett of Placer county, will secure the coveted prize.

A Monster Steer.

A remarkable instance of prolific growth was brought to our notice this week. Florence Giannini a few days ago bought a three year old steer of Wales Palmer. The animal had been raised exclusively on grass grown in a small tract around the dwelling house. Feed has been unusually abundant this season in all parts of the county, and nowhere more so than in the vicinity of Drytown. The steer attained an enormous size. The average weight at such age is between 400 and 500 lbs. Judging from appearances the butcher concluded that this particular beast would tip the scales at 700, dressed. He was surprised to find that when dressed it weighed 1020 pounds. It is hard to beat such a record as that.

FELL TWELVE HUNDRED FEET.

A Miner at the Zella Steps Off Skip Into Shaft and is Instantly Killed.

A miner named Pietro Fravega met death in the shaft of the Zella mine early Tuesday morning. It was about 6 o'clock. The men were coming out of the mine on change of shift. A skip full of men, with Fravega on board, was hauled to the surface. The skip was in the north compartment. It is usual for those riding on the south side of the skip to step onto the center brace and get off on that side by stepping from the center brace over the south compartment. Whether Fravega got mixed up as to his location in the skip, or whether he missed the center brace accidentally, will never be known. No one of his fellow workman saw how the accident occurred. He fell down the south compartment, clear to the 1200 level. He was mangled beyond all recognition when the remains were recovered. The head was nearly all gone, and portions of the body were picked up afterward and carried to the undertaking parlors to be interred with the trunk. Coroner Huberty held an inquest the same day, when a verdict of accidental death was returned. It was one of those casualties due to carelessness or misadventure, that in spite of all admonitions will occur in the prosecution of mining.

Deceased was a single man, about 30 years of age. He had worked about the mines of Jackson for two or three years, but had only recently started to work underground at the Zella.

Deceased's brother, Francisco Fravega, and sister-in-law, Mrs. Fravega, came up from San Francisco Wednesday, and the remains were shipped to that city on Thursday morning, accompanied by the relatives.

Plant Teaming Discontinued.

All the big teams that have been hauling freight to the electric plant at Electra, have been laid off until the roads have sufficiently hardened to permit of a resumption of work. There have been four teams engaged in this work. The remaining freight consists of heavy machinery, and it was found impracticable to haul such loads over the road in its present condition. A ten-ton pipe was hauled to Kerr's station, but the teamsters realized that it would be useless to attempt to haul it. There is also a large quantity of other machinery awaiting shipment at Ione. Unless the railroad is finished to Martell's before the summer opens, it will probably be June before any attempt is made to take these ponderous pieces of machinery to their destination at Electra. Some of them weigh in the neighborhood of twenty tons. There are but a few men employed at Electra, outside of the regular force. The work has advanced to the point that a suspension is necessary until the balance of the material is received. Messrs. Baum and J. Wise, superintendent and engineer of the Gas and Electric Corporation, arrived at the plant Wednesday night, on a visit of inspection.

School Notes.

The question, "Resolved that the period between 1840 and 1860 was of more importance to the United States than that between 1890 and 1900," was debated by the following pupils of the 8th and 9th grades last Friday afternoon: Affirmative—Whitney Rust, Maud Portner, Katie McGee, Mary Heath and Lester Daugherty; Negative—Lewis Love, Anna Strohm, Roma Spagnoli, Monroe Weil and Luella Roberts. The decision was made in favor of the affirmative by the following gentlemen who acted as judges: Prof. J. S. Clark, Rev. C. E. Winning and C. Marella. Interesting remarks also were made by each of these gentlemen after the decision had been rendered, which were largely of a commendatory character.

School report in another column. By an oversight the name of Merle Marchant was omitted from the list of those in the 9th grade who were neither absent nor tardy last month.

About ninety volumes have been added to the school library recently.

E. C. Rust, editor of the Dispatch, who had his hand crushed by a job press last week, has been confined to his bed most of the time since the accident. He is rapidly recovering from the reaction. His wife came up from Ione on hearing of the mishap, and has been nursing him ever since.

A crack has developed in the south west corner of the new third story of the Odd Fellows hall building. It is thought a portion of the fire wall will have to come down. Experts who have examined it say such a course is necessary.

MINING NEWS.

KENNEDY.—The Kennedy mine is running along smoothly, the full milling capacity of 100 stamps being kept in steady operation. The shaft is down below 2800 feet. The lowest level at this depth is being opened up. A drift is being run west, to encounter the ledge, which it is expected to reach at a distance of 500 feet from the shaft. The drift is now in 400 feet. The perpendicular east shaft was sunk on the calculation of striking the ore body at a depth of 3500 feet. As the shaft still lacks 700 feet of this depth, hence the long drift west to meet the ore. The drift is being pushed rapidly, and is expected to reach the ore chute in a few weeks.

Preston School Publication.

The Preston School Outlook for April is a very creditable production from a typographical point of view. It is gotten up in the highest style of the art preservative. Indeed, such a work would reflect honor upon high class printing offices of the large cities. It is profusely embellished with half tone cuts of the officers of the institution, and illustrations of the work rooms. They must have a dandy printing establishment at the school. Country plants are not "in it" compared with the facilities for turning out such work at Preston—assuming that the publication is on the "home-print" plan. While as a mechanical production the publication could hardly be improved upon, we are inclined to the opinion that a portion of its contents is in poor taste, editorially. An article purporting to be a report of a lecture given at the school recently by General Joubert on the Boer war, is grossly inaccurate from an historical standpoint. If Joubert is correctly reported, he simply did not know what he was talking about, and utterly ignored authentic history of his own country. To reproduce such a mass of prejudiced rot from one whose mission is purely partisan, seems to us a grave mistake on the part of those conducting a publication of the Outlook character.

VOLCANO NEWS.

Volcano, March 23.
The storm in this vicinity has been of great benefit to the farmers and miners, who thought the water would not hold out long enough to enable them to clean up the amount of gravel they intended to, but they do not seem to worry about it now.
The Marsino Bros. mine is showing up well. They are drifting the gravel out and have enough in sight to keep them busy for a long time.
W. H. Glenn has shut down his mill for a few days, to make some repairs, but ore is being steadily taken out.

The mining in the flat is holding its own being the same amount of work as there was last year.
The gravel mine of Brown and Bradshaw is running steadily, two hydraulic are used for the work. Manuel Santirio is conducting a hydraulic mine in Grass valley, about two miles from here.

Wilbur Murphy and Jesse Bonneau have opened a mine in Soldier's gulch. Work is not being carried on very extensively at present on account of the illness of Jesse. The powder affected him. Wilbur is working part of the time, for frequent blasts are heard in that locality.

Chris Leslie, who is operating the Madrone mine in the Pioneer district, reports things as being very favorable. Mr. Leslie is a first-class miner, and has succeeded in opening up a good mine.
A social dance was given in Armory hall last Friday evening. Good music was furnished by Prof. Quinn and Murphy. Mr. Quinn conducts a dancing school here and his pupils were all on hand and made it merry. So much pleasure was found in the hop that they forgot St. Patrick's day only lasted until 12 o'clock and continued until their attention was called to the fact.
The rain caused Sutter creek to rise so high that the large gate of the tunnel company was shut down, and the little lake was soon filled. The Hilda which has been on dry dock since 1904, was again put afloat, Tony Delucchi taking her on her trial trip, and found that further repairs had to be made. If you remember Tony as the man who christened the Hilda by removing the cork from a bottle of champagne, drinking the contents and breaking the empty bottle on her side, and shouting her name. The Hilda is a graceful craft and was constructed by Profs. Leak and Boydston in 1904. She is again speeding the water and in perfect order, and seems to be the pleasure of the town.

JUBILEE CELEBRATION I. O. O. F.

Amador Lodge of Jackson Dedicates New Hall on the Fiftieth Anniversary of its Organization.

A very interesting time was had last Saturday evening, on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of Amador Lodge, No. 36, I. O. O. F., of Jackson. The event served also as a dedication of the addition of a third story to the hall property of the lodge, which is now regularly used for lodge meeting purposes. Over two hundred invitations were extended to members and friends of the order throughout the county, and many responded with their presence. The hall was packed to overflowing. An unusually entertaining programme was carried out successfully as follows, with Mrs. F. H. Duden and Miss Alma Mounter presiding at the piano:

After the literary exercises the company repaired to the banqueting room, on the second story, where a menu of good things, embracing everything calculated to tempt the most fastidious appetite, was provided, and to which the guests did ample justice. The entertainment broke up after midnight.
